County may bear costs of waterway maintenance

By WAYNE DUCOMBE JR.
Hancock County will be responsible for the maintenance dredging of the Port of Biloxi (Industrious) Park channel unless the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is convinced the waterway warrants emergency funding.
W. Wilson Webb, Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission executive director, said at a Thursday night commission meeting that after Jan. 1, 1983, the Corps will not fund maintenance dredging projects for ports handling less than 5 million tons of cargo per year.
The director reported that an ongoing Gulf Coast Intracoastal Waterway to Port Biloxi study now being conducted by the Corps would probably not be completed in time to allow funding before 1983.
The port's access channel extends from The Rigolets, through Little Lake and along the East (Pearl) River into Biloxi.

NEW WORLD RECORD: Andre Villars, 17, of Fitness Systems training club in New Orleans, straddles successfully set a new world record against lifting record Saturday, at St. Stanislaus Brother Peter Memorial Gymnasium. Villars, in the 150 pound powerlifter class, lifts 536 pounds above. The old record was 529 pounds. Some 35 powerlifters from five states competed in the 15th Annual Mississippi Invitational Championships which drew some 300 spectators. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

Hancock Welfare to issue cheese

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Cheese will be distributed Wednesday at the Hancock County Fair Grounds to certified Food Stamp recipients, according to Wallace Bradley, Hancock Welfare director.
Bradley said Hancock's allotment is 442 five-pound pieces and it will be distributed starting at 8 a.m. until the supply runs out.
"We have 1,200 families in Hancock who are on food stamps," he said. "The supply is limited."
The cheese will be delivered by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to the Fair Grounds for distribution. It is scheduled to arrive at Camp Shelby, according to Bradley, and then to the Planning and Development Distributors where the supervisors will pick it up.

Darlene Peterson, food stamp supervisor stated, "Recipients must have an ID card available and will have to pick up the cheese themselves. If persons are sick, authorized representative can do so if they are on file."
The welfare office in Bay St. Louis will not issue any food stamps on Wednesday due to the distribution.
The Hancock County Sheriff's office is also to supply assistance to the welfare department on Wednesday. Washington's Birthday will be observed by the Welfare Department as a holiday on Monday.

Bay attempts to buck wastewater officials

By BRENT MACEY
While Hancock and Waveland officials are attempting to buck the wastewater authority, Bay St. Louis officials are attempting to buck the system further.
Tuesday the Bay St. Louis City Council voted not to join a county-run wastewater authority termed the Waveland Wastewater Authority for Hancock County.
As a result, a meeting to hear arguments in favor of separate Bay St. Louis wastewater system is set for Feb. 25 with the Commission in Jackson. Charles Blalock, director of the Department of Natural Resources, Friday stated that a separate order will be sent to Bay St. Louis officials notifying them that they have not been responsive to a July 1, 1981 order by the commission, which requested cities along the coast to devise a better method to deal with the wastewater issue.
"Bay St. Louis must now show just cause why the commission should not take action against them," Blalock said.
"I don't know what the action could be," he added.
Blalock noted Waveland and Hancock County have been approved in a managerial scheme for Hancock County, but like other coastal counties, a facility's plan has not been approved. Both Waveland and Hancock have adopted a resolution to join the Waveland Authority.
Blalock noted Waveland and the county must now comply with a Commission order to enter into a "legal contract" binding them to Waveland.

KORP parade route winds through Bay

The Krewes of Real People Parade will wind through the streets of Bay St. Louis Mardi Gras Day, with the planned route to include a stop at City Hall where Grand Marshal Willie Bradley and Mayor Larry Bennett will toast the occasion.
The parade will form at St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church on N. Main Avenue and roll at 11 a.m., Bradley said.
From St. Rose, the parade will move out N. Main to Main Street for a turn onto South Second Street and City Hall.
Bay City Hall units will turn onto Union Street and proceed to Third Street, Third Street to Washington Street, Washington to 10th Street, 10th to Sycamore and Sycamore to Third.

Public hearing set for beach front ordinance

The Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission has set March 9, as the date for a public hearing to discuss the establishment of a city ordinance concerning building in beach front property.
The meeting will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of the Valena C. Jones Center in Old Spanish Trail.
The Bay City Council assigned the commission the task of making a recommendation several months ago. Last summer the council attempted to create a new ordinance after finding that the old ordinance on the books contained technical errors and were therefore legally ineffective.
Attempts to create a new ordinance drew heated resistance from private land owners on the beach. The Bay Waveland Yacht Club and other organizations.
As a result, the council never adopted any ordinance. Instead it passed a six month moratorium on beach front construction.
The new ordinance would allow three stories of construction.

Dredging needs critical at Port Bienville Park

BY BRENT MACKEY

Dredging work needed along the Bienville River is critical to many of the water industries located in the industrial park, but whether the United States Corps of Engineers will be able to take the project to have money allocated for dredging will depend on the availability of funds in the Corps' budget.

The song, "Take Me To The Mardi Gras" is very popular in our communities this time of the year.

We are in hopes many will attend the Annual Nereids Parade this year forming at the Choctaw Plaza located at US-90 and Hwy. 603.

The theme of this year's parade is "The Adventures of Alice," and having seen the floats on a sneak preview last week, they seem to be the best ever for Nereids.

Several of the floats this year will be higher than in prior years, as a matter of fact, the tops of three floats are so high they will have to be added on when they leave the barn on Sunday morning.

The parade will proceed down US-90 West almost to the intersection of the Old Spanish trail, return to the East and go to Bouslog Street, and then West back to the shopping center.

This will be the first time for Nereids to parade in Bay St. Louis as it will hit the city limits for a few feet before making its turn.

Mardi Gras has been around a very long time, but we must remember it has been the ladies of Nereids who have really got it going again in Hancock County the way the professionals do in New Orleans.

So come out today and enjoy the excitement of Nereids, Eros, the Krewe of Hancock, and bands and also marching groups. And just think! This is just the start of the parades in Hancock County for Mardi Gras.

Everyone seems to still be buzzing about the Grand Jury's report two weeks ago.

We can never remember a report causing as much conversation in recent years.

It seems there are many questions being asked on how certain information was received by the Grand Jury about many of the areas commented on by the group.

The construction of the Chateau de St. Louis apartment house in Bay St. Louis is good news for the city.

The plans call for very special features and it should be the showcase apartment complex in our area.

Housing seems to have been a serious problem for many years in Hancock County.

HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY!

Tornadoes-- What are they?

Tornadoes are short-lived local storms containing high speed winds usually rotating in a counter-clockwise direction. Tornadoes begin as intense thunderstorms and develop downward toward the earth's surface. Tornado damage can occur on the ground even though the visible funnel may not reach the ground.

The funnel is actually composed of nothing more than condensed water vapor and is actually a cloud. However, when the circulation of the funnel reaches the ground, it usually picks up dirt and debris which eventually forms a visible funnel. Scientists have estimated that wind speeds vary from less than 40 mph to weaker tornadoes to possibly over 300 mph in the strongest.

Only a few thunderstorms... generally only the most severe ones... will spawn a tornado. Severe thunderstorms and tornadoes are most likely to occur when the proper weather conditions are present: warm, humid and unstable air at the earth's surface; cold air at middle atmospheric levels; and strong upper-level "jet stream" winds.

On the average, tornado paths are less than a quarter of a mile wide and seldom more than 15 miles long. However, there have been spectacular instances in which tornadoes have had paths of more than a mile wide and 200 miles long. Most tornadoes travel from the southwest to the northeast with an average speed of 30 mph, but some have been observed to travel at a forward speed of 70 mph.

Most tornadoes occur in the deep south and in the broad, relatively flat basin between the Rockies and the Appalachians, but no state is immune. Peak months of tornado activity for Mississippi are February, March, April, and May. However, tornadoes have occurred every month and at all times of the day or night. A typical time of occurrence is on an unseasonably warm sunny spring afternoon between 3 and 9 p.m.

Because most tornadoes are so short-lived, short-lived, and often obscured by rain or darkness, the best way to deal with them is to be prepared. Individuals should have tornado preparedness plans for their homes. They should also familiarize themselves with the proper safety rules so that they will know how to protect themselves in a car, in a building, or in whatever situation that may arise. Businesses should also have emergency plans and pre-designated shelter areas.

ROAD SURFACING—Sam Periclaro, District Four supervisor, checks progress of the surfacing of 1.3 miles of roads in the Bayou Phillips area recently completed. NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

Gov. William Winter has announced that a $35,000 allotment of cheese is being made available to Mississippi food stamp recipients in 5-pound blocks and will be ready for distribution Feb. 17.

Some 842 five-pound blocks of cheese are slated for distribution in Hancock County.

The American processed cheese will be distributed by welfare officials in each county to food stamp recipients on a first-come, first-served basis at points determined by the county Board of Supervisors. Those desiring cheese must present their food stamp identification cards.

According to Project Coordinator Buddy Jamison of the Governor's Office of Federal State Programs, allocations of the cheese will be made in proportion to the number of food stamp recipients in each county.

"This is the first time that any cheese has been given to the needy in this manner," said Jamison. "So far, we've had outstanding cooperation from each county in making plans for the distribution of a nourishing food product. The cooperation and assistance of the planning and development districts in the development and implementation of our allocation plan has contributed toward Mississippi being selected as the pilot state in this region for the cheese distribution program.

The accumulation of millions of pounds of cheese as a result of federal price supports led the government to donate 30 million pounds of cheese nationwide Dec. 22. It is currently being distributed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service through state distribution agents who customarily handle commodities for schools and institutions.

Nationally the 30 million pounds of cheese are being offered under provisions of Section 416 of the Agricultural Act of 1949 and Section 1112 of the Agriculture and Food Stamp Act of 1981, which authorized the distribution to prevent waste.

There are currently more than 106,000 food stamp households in Mississippi, making it impossible for the 67,200 blocks of cheese to go around. Persons not receiving a cheese block on Feb. 17, however, should not be discouraged, said Jamison.

"We fully expect more cheese will be put into the program," he said. "All of the initial supply is gone, names will be taken of those persons desiring cheese, and they will be given priority on the next shipment."

TRIPPING THE CIRCUIT-BREAKER

Pictures the process of how Government regulates the lives and businesses of Americans as an electrical circuit, a closed loop with the regulatory load getting heavier and heavier.

When would the load become so excessive that it would cause the circuit breaker to trip, shutting down the loop so that needed adjustments could be made?

It appears now that the circuit breaker has tripped—in the form of a Presidential Task Force on Regulatory Relief. The group has been working for less than a year, but already substantial progress has been made in relieving the American public from burdensome and uneconomic regulations.

President Reagan created the task force on February 17, 1981, and required that agencies in the executive branch adhere to specified economic principles in formulation of regulations.

Under the presidential order, regulations must be based on evidence that their potential benefits to society are greater than their potential costs to society. Additionally, notices of proposed and final rules must be reviewed by the Office of Management and Budget before being published.

What has happened since then?

By the end of 1981, OMB had received 2,761 regulations for review and had completed a review of 2,515. Because of the new standard for regulations, most were found to be in compliance with the President's executive order.

According to a year-end summary of the administration's regulatory relief program, the review process has sharply curtailed the proliferation of federal regulation and helped ensure that new regulations achieve the greatest benefits at the least cost.

One measurement of how well the regulatory review process is working is the Federal Register, in which regulations are published. The number of pages in the publication has fallen by one-third since President Reagan took office.

Final regulatory relief actions taken since January, 1981, are projected to yield savings of between $2.9 billion and $4.8 billion in capital investment costs and between $1.1 billion and $2.6 billion in annually recurring costs.

In addition, expected savings from regulatory reviews now underway and likely to be completed over the next few months total $12.6 billion in capital investment costs and $7 billion in annually recurring costs.

Regulatory relief has received a high degree of attention in the Reagan administration and so far the presidential task force, which is chaired by Vice President Bush, seems to be working out quite well.

I've recently been reading about bartering, and even bartering class with great interest. My electrical contracting business has been off and this could be a way to get some of the things I need. Any drawbacks?

Dear AD: Bartering is not new, in fact it is older than contracting. The direct swapping of time and goods for same between farmers, tradesmen, housewives, etc., probably predates money.

Dollars and other currencies were introduced to help to make it possible for buyers and sellers to deal with each other without the direct exchange of real goods and services.

In a cashless society a would-be consumer would have to find a would-be provider and work out a mutually agreeable exchange of goods and services.

With money, however, the would-be buyer can sell goods and/or services to a third party, and then use the dollars to buy whatever he wants from the would-be seller.

Bartering goes on all the time in families and among neighbors and friends.

In many areas the local newspaper's classified sections will have a number of ads offering to sell or trade for.

Bartering began making the headlines in consumer and general interest magazines several years ago as a means to get more for your money.

The IRS took a dim view of some of the trading, however, (that which was not reported by the respective parties as income) and now generally expects any income from "trading" and "bartering" to be reported as "fair market value" income. Most local governments also expect the appropriate sales taxes on such trades.

As you noted a number of clubs have sprung up to help would-be traders get together—some are legitimate, some are merely catalogs, and some are just looking for a membership fee and a percentage on any deals made.

It might be a better idea to use the classified section of the local newspaper to try to arrange your deals. You will know who you are dealing with, and the overhead will be the least possible.

One caution from the experts, however, is to avoid overbartering. They recommend no more than 10 percent of one's annual income.

Skin rashes have many causes

Have you break out in a rash?

Most of us have rash now and then. Mostly it isn't serious and clears up after a few days. But sometimes the rash is a sign of something more threatening.

A rash may stem from allergic reactions, fever or heat, infections the offending substance, or a skin reaction sometimes appears without any medication. Most often the rash stems from the use of powerful drugs, such as antibiotics, tranquilizers or antipsychotics. Usually the rash disappears when the medication is discontinued.

The American Medical Association's Handbook of First Aid and Emergency Care points out that skin contact with poisons often causes rashes. Many infectious diseases cause rashes. Among these are chicken pox, German measles, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, typhoid, and malaria.

Other skin reactions can occur from certain foods, such as shellfish, and from certain plants, such as poison ivy. A skin reaction sometimes appears without any medication. Most often the rash stems from the use of powerful drugs, such as antibiotics, tranquilizers or antipsychotics. Usually the rash disappears when the medication is discontinued.

Gulf Coast Research Laboratories to offer five new summer courses

Five new college level marine science courses will be offered during the 1982 summer teaching season at the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, according to Dr. David W. Cook, president of the laboratory.

The summer teaching program will be 33 years old. We have revised our curriculum and adding five new ones. We believe that we have a very good program for this summer, Cook said.

Four of the new courses are: Coastal Marine Geology, Oceanography, Coastal Vegetation, and Comparative Histology of Marine Organisms. The fifth new course is Fauna and Faunistic Ecology of Tidal Marshes.

Marine Organisms will carry on to 6 semester hours credit with the time to be arranged by the instructors, Dr. Harold Howas, director of GCRL and senior electron microscopist and Dr. William Hawkins, head of the microscopy section. The course will be a detailed study of the histological organization of representative marine organisms.

Fauna and Faunistic Ecology of Tidal Marshes is a survey course devoted to discussion of the scientific classification, distribution, notational relationships, reproduction, and adaptation of tidal marsh animals with emphasis on species occurring in the northern Gulf of Mexico.

conduct actual research projects under the direction of a GCRL staff member.

Classes at the Laboratory are field-oriented, giving students a unique opportunity to observe specimens in their natural habitats. Frequent trips are made into the bayous and salt marshes which surround the Lab. Field trips also are made to the barrier islands, located 0-12 miles offshore, and into the open Gulf beyond, providing students access to habitats ranging from freshwater to marine.

All summer classes are open to college graduates and undergraduates. Junior standing or above is required for all courses except Introduction to Marine Zoology.

Some prerequisites are required for each course. Credit earned (3 to 6 semester hours) depends upon the length of the course.

The Laboratory is an independent member of the college system of Mississippi and is affiliated with all Mississippi-supported universities and four private colleges. Also GCRL is a teaching affiliate of 43 universities and colleges located in 16 other states.

For more information on courses, including dates taught, credit, living arrangements, tuition, and fees for the 1982 teaching session, contact The Registrar, GCRL, Ocean Springs, MS.

FmHA promises cooperation during economic squeeze

Although many farmers are facing financial difficulty because of today's cost-price squeeze, the Farmers Home Administration reports it intends to do all it can to help borrowers stay in farming. FmHA State Director James V. Perry said, "We recognize there are problems with high interest rates, inflation, a grain embargo, adverse weather and other causes." And these have been intensified by overall bumper crops that have affected maintained loan security in prices. "As Secretary of Agriculture John Block said recently, our farm economy is in a valley right now and to succeed we can reasonably expect FmHA to stay with the hill on the other side." Perry said Block had instructed FmHA to explore the use of private credit to supplement its own lending resources whenever possible. In addition, existing legal authority to reschedule or defer payments is to be used where practicable.

News Brief

LEONTYNE PRICE
 Mississippi-born opera star Leontyne Price is interviewed on "John Callaway Interviews" at 1 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 14, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Callaway asks Miss Price when she first thought about singing. "When I was nine I heard Marian Anderson," she said. "I wanted to walk like that, look like that and sound like that." She went on to college and to Juilliard where her career was launched. At 34, she enjoys musical vocal longevity. "I have never felt so vibrant," she says. "I have never loved what I do more than I do now. The sheer joy of making music will keep you ever youthful."

HNC to continue to South Mississippi competition

By BRENT MACEY
Hancock North Central High School boys' and girls' basketball teams will be competing in the South

Mississippi State Tournament as a result of their victories Friday night in the District VIII Class A semifinals action of the tournament. Saturday night at Pass Christian.

The victories Friday placed the Hancock teams in the Class A semifinals action of the tournament.

Saturday the Hancock boys were scheduled to face Purvis and the Hancock girls were matched against Stone County.

Those games had not been played at press time. Results will be included in Thursday's edition of The Sea Coast Echo.

In Friday night semifinal action the Hancock boys defeated the Forrest County Aggies 58-55.

The game was a thriller down to the final minutes of the contest. The Forrest boys lagged only one point behind with seconds left in game.

But Hancock remained calm and managed to keep their opponents at bay, stalling the ball and continuing to hit free throws when the Aggies were forced to foul in an attempt to gain possession.

Hawk Neal Ladner was high scorer for Hancock with 15 points. Teammates Kyle Malley added 12, Brian Arment scored 11 and David Ladner ended with 10.

The Hancock girls had an easier contest against Poplarville Friday, winning the ball game by a score of 38-29.

Although Poplarville lead at the half way marker, the Hawkettes came back in the second half and took a commanding lead in the third period.

Betsy Arment paced the Hawkettes with 14 points for the evening.

Poplarville's Pam McGill totaled 10.

In other action Friday, the Purvis boys sneaked past Oak Grove 49-48 to gain a spot in the final action Saturday.

Darry Jackson of Purvis fired 18 points while teammates Russel Davis scored 14 and Carrol Davis hit for 11.

The Stone County girls romped over their Purvis opponents 57-24 Friday.

Turnkittens Rhonda Hickman and Pam Wilson, each had 13 points while teammates Alicia Jones totaled 12 and Glenda Jones added 10 more for Stone.

THURSDAY NIGHT ACTION

Both Pass Christian and Bay High dropped their games in the second round of Class A tournament action Thursday.

Bay High, who had a tough evening from the word go, were stopped by Hancock North-Central in the final seconds of the ball game 42-40.

Bay Tiger Head Coach Jerry Spell noted his team had problems even getting to the gymnasium.

Apparently the Tiger Pride Band took the bus intended to transport Bay High basketball players to the tournament.

Spell managed to secure another bus, but the delay caused the Tigers to arrive in the Pass Christian Gym three minutes before game time.

We didn't have time to have any warm up practice or pre game talk preparation. We just jumped into the game and started cold," he said.

Regardless, the Tigers managed to hang tough in the first half of action.

In the third quarter Bay High led by eight points and when the Tigers attempted to jump ahead by 10, Hancock blocked it. Hancock came back with eight quick runs.

With two seconds left in the game, Hancock's Brian Arment hit for two points and the ball game ended.

The Pass Christian boys' and girls' teams Thursday were also close contests.

The Pass boys were knocked out of the tournament by Oak Grove 52-47.

Pass's Brian Cannon was Hancock's top scorer with 18 points while teammates David Ladner and Carrol Davis each scored 10.

The Hancock girls' team won 38-29 over Poplarville.

The Hancock boys' team defeated the Forrest County Aggies 58-55.

Officials eyeing new park plan

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission is requesting the assistance of a planner to coordinate new studies and maps for a Fort Bienville Industrial Park master plan. Commissioner Victor Frankiewicz recommended the request asking Gulf Regional Planning Commission to assign its Hancock Coordinator, Jeff Taylor, one day weekly to direct the project.

Frankiewicz proposed seven major priorities in a Special Management Area plan for the industrial park.

He recommended meeting with regulatory agencies, particularly the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, to seek their assistance with an understanding that these entities will agree with a resulting development plan.

The commissioner said basic studies are needed to establish topographic information, wetlands jurisdiction, archaeological areas and drainage basins.

The master plan should be prepared to identify the location of existing structures, utilities, drainage roads and property owner's lines.

Frankiewicz said a draft of a development plan should be formulated as a discussion document to incorporate ideas from regulatory agencies.

He recommended negotiation with those agencies to revise the plan.

The final step calls for formal agreements between the commission and the appropriate agencies.

Frankiewicz said the plan would be used as a set of regulations for development of Port Bienville. Frankiewicz stated:

"With this plan, we would know where we could put new channels and bulkheads and develop a long-term disposal plan," he noted.

Frankiewicz emphasized that formal agreements are necessary to personnel changes in regulatory agencies will not affect the established development plan and legally bind them to prior decisions.

The commissioner said his proposal could be funded with $40,000 from the U.S. Department of Commerce through the Bureau of Marine Resources. He noted the commission would be required to provide about $20,000 in matching monies which could consist of in-kind services.

He speculated subcontract work would be necessary to obtain topographic information, maps, drainage studies, archaeological information and wetlands identification.

Frankiewicz added that GRPC could provide many services to assist in the studies.

Bay man jailed in indecency case

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Bay St. Louis man is in Hancock County Jail serving a 30-day sentence for allegedly exposing himself in a public place to a female convenience store clerk.

Assistant Chief Gerry Grenillon of the Bay St. Louis Police Department Thursday said Stephen J. Faucetta, 30, of Route 3, Box 303 was declared guilty by City Court Judge Joseph Bertram.

The man was charged with indecent exposure after he was caught on film by a security camera at a convenience store on the corner of US-90 and Washington Street, where Faucetta was working as a clerk.

AIRPORT EROSION—Excluding a proposed $2.5 million project at a Thursday night Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission meeting is Harry Patterson, right, of the Bay St. Louis office of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service. Commissioners listening to the presentation are, from left, Bully Zengering, Victor Frankiewicz and Harry Baxter. Commission oks airport erosion control project

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Stennis International Airport erosion control project which has been plagued by funding problems for about five years may receive federal support in 1983.

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission Thursday night approved U.S. Soil Conservation Service specifications for the estimated $2.5 million project designed to halt erosion along two large drainage ditches at the northern end of the airport runway.

The Hancock Board of Supervisors Tuesday will consider the proposal approved by the commission.

Those ditches drain northward into nearby Jordan River just east of McLeod Water Park where heavy rains washed clay silt into the waterway.

Harry Patterson of the Bay St. Louis office of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service explained the project. The main concern of this project is silt into Jordan River and its tributaries.

He noted the proposed project will be funded by a 45-55 matching federal grant in which the county would be required to purchase six large culverts to be placed under the ditches.

Patterson said project costs which were inflated in anticipation of delays indicate the county would spend about $15,226 and the federal state would provide $2,500.

He speculated the supervisors might obtain the culverts at a lower price.

Patterson explained the project would construct a levee and pipe structure which would not inhibit water flow, but would stop soil erosion.

He said the Stennis project is ranked second statewide to a $200,000 erosion prevention project in Hattiesburg.

Regarding a proposed aircraft apron construction project near the southern end of the runway, the commissioners authorized Mike Smith, a consulting engineer for Advanced Development, Inc. of Bay St. Louis, to prepare applications for funding from the Federal Aviation Administration.

The commission is seeking funds for a 300-foot by 450-foot aircraft apron.

The authorization pending approval by the supervisors Tuesday.

Commissioner Bud Peterson speculated the commissioner's action might not be approved by the supervisors.

Smith estimated his charge for preparing and filing the applications would be about $4,500.

The engineer urged the commissioners to also apply for funds to install an instrument landing system and extend the taxiway at the airport, but Commissioner Victor Frankiewicz urged the board to only apply for the apron and the instrument landing system.

Smith said the cost for preparing additional applications would increase his fee to about $10,000.

He requested the board allocate $200,000 to allocate assistance for airport improvement projects.

W. Wilson Webb, commission executive director, said if applications were submitted the apron construction project would be classified as a high priority project by the FAA.

Smith said the commission should annually update funding requests so federal officials will be aware of what the airport lacks.

If you don't update applications every year you are saying to federal officials that you are not interested in funding," he said.

Frankiewicz said, "We have two other things to say where we are on funding improvements by ourselves."

Regarding another airport project on the commission's planning to construct a joint venture with Bay Aviation Inc., the "fixed base" airport operator, Commissioner Dave McDonald, who heads the commission's airport committee, reported the committee has not yet reached a final decision in order to offer a report.

In reference to the airport's non-directional beacon recently installed near Pritchard Road, Webb said the commission is seeking a certified technician to calibrate the device.

He said the NDB is operating but a warning device installed last year by the Department of Transportation which warns of a system malfunction is not operating correctly.

Webb reported an effort to correct the problem, the warning device might be installed and the commission forestry commission's fire tower located nearby.

Wastewater

Separate county authorities "is a tremendous victory for the people."

"It will allow us to continue to have home rule and will save the people a lot of money," he said.

Dolph Kellar, president of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, noted he was elated when he heard the commission might approve separate county authorities.

"I don't understand what Bay St. Louis is doing," he stated.

The state had long favored a three-county authority to handle the problem of meeting clean water standards before 1985.

But prior to the Thursday ruling the Commission had the final say in allowing separate county authorities.

A letter distributed to Hancock County Board of Supervisors by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, dated Thursday, said the commission had approved the separate county authorities.

The letter stated that the commission had approved the separate county authorities.

are trying to do things which I think violate our civil rights."

Councilman Gene Taylor noted he talked with Charles Chisholm, director of the Bureau of Air and Water Pollution Control prior to the meeting.

"He (Chisholm) said despite the letter what he wanted us to do is to back down and want to solve the wastewater issue," Taylor said.

Board attorney Joseph Cox noted Chisholm could be talking out of the top of his head.

The letter states what it states. The letter says adopt the Waveland Wastewater Authority, he said.

The commission agreed to "send a letter to the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Mississippi, advising them that the commission has approved the separate county authorities."

for the city to treat wastewater.

Miss Bay councilman agreed.

Councilman Sheldon Seuzeneau has noted in the past that he is opposed to joining the Waveland Wastewater Authority because of the managerial structure of the organization.

The Authority, created by the state legislature two years ago, consists of both the mayors of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and the president of the Board of Supervisors.

Each official has an equal vote.

Seuzeneau feels that the authority is stacked against Bay St. Louis, since the Bay is represented by the Supervisor, while Waveland is represented by the Mayor.

He said the city will copy the letter and send it to the Board of Supervisors.

Waterway

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors Thursday night approved a plan to construct a waterway through the county to improve navigation and provide a shortcut for commercial vessels.

The plan, which would cost about $10 million, would create a new waterway through the county, bypassing the Jordan River and its tributaries.

Junior Auxiliary slates youth, adult seminars on alcohol and drug abuse

The Bay St. Louis Junior Auxiliary will sponsor a series of alcohol and drug abuse seminars Monday and Wednesday, Feb. 15 and 17, and again Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 24 and 26 at Bay St. Louis Junior and Senior High Schools.

The Junior Auxiliary is also sponsoring a free public seminar on parents, children and drugs Tuesday, Feb. 16 at 7 p.m. at Bay Junior High auditorium.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson and Investigator Alvin M. Lader will conduct the youth seminars designed to acquaint teenagers with the hazards and consequences of drug and alcohol abuse.

Peterson has 10 years of experience in law enforcement and as a sheriff has participated in more than 1,000 arrests in Hancock County. He is a graduate of the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers Training Academy, basic police class, the University of Mississippi Law Enforcement seminar and the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officer Training Academy investigation school.

He has also attended various other law enforcement schools. Lader, who has been an investigator with the Hancock County Sheriff's Department since 1960, obtained more than 50 felony convictions in court and has had special training at the British Academy of Forensic Sciences in the modern trends of criminalistics.

He holds a master of science degree in criminal justice with a minor in political science.

Lader has attended special training sessions in burglary investigation, forensic science seminars, basic narcotics seminars and New Orleans crime prevention seminars. Vick Robbins, criminal justice liaison with the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center in Gulfport, will be the guest speaker at the adult session along with Peterson and Lader.

The seminar will be for adults only and is open to the public. The session will deal with parents and how they should deal with drug or alcohol abuse in their children.

Robbins has a background in criminal justice for 12 years, specializing in drug and sex crimes. He works as the liaison between law enforcement agencies and courts and the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center in Region 3, which covers Hancock, Harrison, Stone and Pearl River Counties.

Robbins has been a presenter at the Justice Department schools and currently serves as the vice chairman of the South Mississippi Criminal Justice Planning Commission.

Further information concerning the seminar may be obtained by calling Pat Barry at 467-4242 or Patsy Dubulson at 467-1574.

EDUCATION OUTLOOK

By Billy D. Sills, Hancock County School District superintendent

We recently received some very gratifying news pertaining to the Hancock County School District.

I would like to say "Thank You" to the administration, faculty and staff for a job well done. We have accomplished some good things for the School District and our benefits are beginning to pay off.

Our schools are improving, and we are confident that they will continue to improve with the goals and objectives we have set.

Consider the following statistics:

—1978-79 Composite ACT score was 13.4; 1980-81 Composite ACT score was 14.6; Source: American College Testing Bureau, Princeton, N.J.

1978-79 Student dropout rate was 14 percent; 1980-81 Student dropout rate was 9 percent; 1981-82 (end of five month) Student dropout rate was 6 percent; Source: State Department of Education, Division of Administration and Finance.

—1978-79 Student attendance was 80 percent; 1981-82 Student attendance was 83 percent; Source: State Department of Education, Division of Administration and Finance.

—1978-79 Faculty turn-over was 20 percent; 1980-81 Faculty turn-over was 10 percent; Source: State Department of Education, Division of Administration and Finance.

—1978-79 State Testing Program (SAT) for grades 4, 8 and 12 indicates there is improvement in the academic skills in the elementary schools.

The 1981-82 school year started off with a full faculty. When other school systems on the Coast were having trouble filling their critical subject areas, such as Math, Science, Library Science, and Special Education, we were able to bring in top quality teachers for these critical subject areas.

We attribute this success to the stability of the school system and contentment of the teaching staff with the present administration.

THE BISHOP'S WIFE—Cary Grant, Jeff, and David Niven star in Samuel Goldwyn's "The Bishop's Wife" with Loretta Young on "Film Classics" at 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 18, on the Mississippi ETV Network. In the comedy, Grant portrays a sort of "blithe spirit" who materializes in answer to the prayers of a beset young bishop (Niven) whose diligent efforts to raise money for a new cathedral bring him to the verge of estrangement from his beautiful wife (Young).

United Energy earnings up 21 percent

United Energy Resources, Inc. reports 1981 consolidated net income of $215.7 million, an increase of 30 percent over the $165.8 million reported in 1980.

Earnings per share increased to $7.70, representing a 21 percent increase over 1980. Operating revenues for 1981 were $5.4 billion, compared with $4.1 billion in 1980.

J. Hugh Roff, Jr., United's chairman, president and chief executive officer, said that United achieved increases in net income, earnings per share and operating revenues for the seventh consecutive year.

Performance improved in all major subsidiaries. United Gas Pipe Line Company and United Texas Transmission Company experienced increased sales volumes for the year, while Cotton Petroleum Corporation benefited from increases in production and higher prices for oil and gas.

Gas Pipe Line Company (Interstate gas transmission), United Texas Transmission Company (intrastate gas transmission), Cotton Petroleum Corporation (oil and gas exploration, development and production), United Energy Services Company (contract drilling and well servicing) and PetroUnited, Inc. (bulk liquids terminaling and marketing).

Bell reports taxes

Ad valorem taxes paid by South Central Bell to local counties and cities amounted to over $1.7 million, according to Don H. Roberts, district manager for South Central Bell Telephone Company.

In Hancock County and cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, the total was $279,664.

In Harrison County and cities of Pass Christian, Long Beach, Gulfport and Biloxi, the total was $1,424,336.

In Jackson County and cities of Moss Point, Pass Christian and Ocean Springs, the total was $1,424,336.

$1,033,873 for all and total of $3,728,033 in the coastal cities and counties.

South Central Bell expects to pay approximately $2.2 million in 1982 to Mississippi municipalities and counties for 1981 ad valorem taxes.

These payments are part of an estimated $25 million tax bill the Bell companies pay to the state and local governments for telephone service.

Mississippi Bell Telephone Company and its subsidiaries, including Bell South Corporation, are part of the Bell System.

Increased day rates were realized in both the drilling and well servicing businesses of United Energy Services Company.

Fourth quarter earnings for the consolidated United companies in 1981 were $30.8 million, or $2.04 per share, on operating revenues of $1.5 billion, compared with $24.3 million, or $1.61 per share, on operating revenues of $1.1 billion for the fourth quarter of 1980.

HEAT & COOL PUMP

Twice the energy efficiency.

The Heat & Cool Pump is the most efficient way to heat any home because it delivers two units of heat for every one unit of electricity. The Heat & Cool Pump does this by taking heat from the outside air and moving it inside to warm your home.

One system for year-round comfort. The Heat & Cool Pump is a single system that both heats and cools automatically, keeping your home comfortable through summer heat and winter cold.

Before you build, buy or remodel, talk to the people at Mississippi Power about the energy and money saving Heat & Cool Pump.
